Amazon Donates $30,000 in Kindles to Support Summer Reading Programs in Woodbridge and Three NJ Towns

WOODBIDGE/EDISON – July 5, 2017 – On Thursday, July 6, Amazon will be celebrating summer reading programs in four New Jersey communities with a donation of 300 Kindles. The devices are to be distributed to public libraries in Woodbridge, Carteret and Edison, and were previously delivered to the Florence School District.

“We are excited to give back to the communities where our associates live and work,” said Avik Saha, director of operations at Amazon’s Robbinsville fulfillment center. “Kindles are a great way to make reading fun and engaging. They will be populated with summer reading lists and can store thousands of titles.”

Amazon officials will at the Woodbridge Public Library at 11:00 AM tomorrow to distribute Kindles to children participating in summer reading programs. From there, Amazon will head over to neighboring Edison to distribute Kindles to little readers at the Edison Public Library at 1:30 PM.
