Sustainability, Collaboration & Partnerships

What should I know?

⇒ Through partnerships and collaborations, communities can better leverage available resources and support one another's initiatives. Sustainability is often driven by innovation, but it is also critical to keep in mind that we must all do our part, and practice measures that we know work in order to see a more sustainable future come to fruition.

⇒ Learning from successful projects and lessons from other municipalities helps to shape our ability to empower a diverse and transformative community. Investing in partnerships offers a unique opportunity to engage in community projects.

Why is it important?

⇒ The National Environmental Policy Act of 1969 (NEPA) committed the United States to sustainability, declaring it a national policy "to create and maintain conditions under which humans and nature can exist in productive harmony, that permit fulfilling the social, economic and other requirements of present and future generations."

⇒ Sustainability connects people and places while serving as a vital community building block aimed at the core of addressing NEPA. Environmental collaboration harnesses problem-solving impacts that go beyond municipal boundaries!
